

Information for Network Partner Companies

Avconet Ltd., the Aviation Consultancy Network, aims to connect the right people with the right project opportunities by means of global personalized networking. This way long term partner- and client relationships will generate growth, income and mutual beneficial intercultural interaction.

What is the function of a Network Partner Company ?

The new global economy brings new challenges for small and mid size companies as well as for already global companies being present in various countries and cultures.

Due to the speed of the most recent global development, more and more companies have already faced one or both of the following scenarios:

- a) You have won a huge project abroad and have problems to staff or handle it alone.
- b) You have an extensive workforce after a huge project and no subsequent occupation.

The Aviation Consultancy Network bundles resources and know - how from experts and employees being interested of working abroad. By the same token, our Network Partner Companies contact us for these resources. So even being employed, your company eventually can buddy up with another Network Partner through Avconet (who needs this resource) and provide this way the know – how needed in own tough times – instead of laying of the resource or not going for the project.

The entire relationship between Network Partner Companies, their project potentials, their resources and the synergies created through Avconet, is based on give and take in a global setting. It aims at the creation of closer relationships between smaller and bigger partners and to support positive international experiences through joint project creation.

What is in there for me as a Network Partner Company ?

- You can team up with other Network Partners to go for international tender opportunities and share the experiences – but as well the risk.
- You can empower your employees to share their experiences with other Network Partners (and post their profile at the Avconet Expert portal) and make both parties stronger this way in international projects.
- You can fall back on the huge Avconet resources pool and extend your reach and chances for winning by adding to your core business skill sets needed in a particular tender.
- Showcase your profile at the Avconet portal and on the bi-yearly Avconet CD.
